

History

History education at Mount St Mary's is designed to instil in students a deep understanding of how our past has shaped our society and their place within it. History is not something to be forgotten, it is alive today and shapes our world politically, economically and socially. A good understanding of History promotes tolerance and understanding and allows our students to be better equipped for their future in an ever changing and often uncertain world.

Our curriculum is structured to nurture a love of History through the development of key historical skills and a depth of knowledge. Students develop the five key concepts using evidence, interpretations, significance, change and continuity and cause and consequence.

Students study a wide range of historical periods from Vikings to modern day medicine. This enables students to study the past from a variety of standpoints and to make connections and comparisons over time.
